The Blueprint Workgroup for Youth with Complex Needs provides Pennsylvania with a cross-system roadmap for improving services and supports for children and youth with complex needs and their families. It calls for stronger coordination across behavioral health, child welfare, education, developmental services, health care, and other systems through integrated planning, aligned funding, shared information and tools, resource navigation, and workforce supports. Ultimately, the blueprint seeks to shift systems from fragmented, crisis-driven responses toward more coordinated, family-centered, and preventive approaches.
